OTHER PRACTICE

Partner, Mayer, Brown & Platt, Washington, D.C., 1989-1993

Michael Kellogg is a founding partner and the managing partner of the firm. He received degrees from Stanford University and Oxford University in philosophy before graduating magna cum laude from the Harvard Law School. After clerking on the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit for Judge Malcolm Wilkey, and then on the United States Supreme Court for Chief Justice Rehnquist, Mr. Kellogg served as Assistant United States Attorney for the Southern District of New York and in the Solicitor General's office. His current practice is focused on appellate, regulatory, and antitrust issues. He has briefed and argued numerous cases before the United States Supreme Court. He co-authored Federal Telecommunications Law and has authored three books on the history of thought, The Greek Search for Wisdom, The Roman Search for Wisdom and The Wisdom of the Middle Ages.

NOTEWORTHY REPRESENTATIONS

American Express Co., et al. v. Italian Colors Restaurant, et al., No. 12-133 (U.S. S.Ct. 2013), argued successfully for the petitioners that the Federal Arbitration Act does not permit courts, invoking the "federal substantive law of arbitrability," to invalidate arbitration agreements on the ground that they do not permit class arbitration of a federal-law claim.

Bell Atlantic Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544 (2007), argued successfully for the petitioners, establishing that parallel conduct, absent plausible evidence of agreement, is insufficient to state a claim under § 1 of the Sherman Act.

Lexecon Inc. v. Milberg Weiss Bershad Hynes & Lerach, 523 U.S. 26 (1998), argued successfully for the petitioner, Lexecon, establishing that federal district courts conducting "pretrial proceedings" for multi-district litigation under 28 U.S.C. § 1407(a) must remand the case for trial.

CLERKSHIP

GOVERNMENT SERVICE

Assistant U.S. Attorney, U.S. Department of Justice, Criminal Division, Southern District of New York, 1986-1990

For more than thirty years Mark Hansen has been lead trial counsel in cases across the United States, in federal and state courts, in civil and criminal actions, before juries, judges and arbitrators, and for prominent clients including governments (the United States, the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia), large corporations (General Electric, Morgan Stanley, AT&T, Verizon, Teva Pharmaceuticals, Aetna), leading entrepreneurs (the Pritzker Organization, Philip Anschutz, Bernard Ashley, Rajendra Singh, Vinod Gupta), private equity firms (Thomas H. Lee Partners, Bain Capital), and many other corporations, classes and individuals.

Among the cases Mr. Hansen has tried to verdict for plaintiffs are the largest judgment collected under the U.S. antitrust laws (Conwood v. United States Tobacco, $1.3 billion collected after denial of certiorari), one of the largest unfair trade practices judgments (Volumetrics v. Philips, $318 million of which $180 million collected in a settlement) and one of the largest abuse of process judgments (Lexecon v. Milberg Weiss, $45 million settled for $50 million just prior to punitive damages phase of trial). Mr. Hansen has defended prominent cases such as the September 11 tort cases (representing Prince Turki Al Faisal, who was dismissed with prejudice from all cases), a class action accusing the major telephone companies of colluding (Twombly, which led to the landmark Supreme Court ruling that revised pleading rules for the federal courts), a monopolization claim against Verizon (Covad, dismissal affirmed on appeal), as well as patent, contract, fraud and other tort claims. Mr. Hansen has tried more than 30 cases to verdict and has argued more than 20 appeals.

Mr. Hansen regularly appears on lists of the country's leading trial lawyers. He is a fellow of the American College of Trial Lawyers.

GOVERNMENT SERVICE

Bristow Fellow, Office of the Solicitor General, U.S. Department of Justice, 2002-2003

Gregory Rapawy is a Kellogg Hansen partner with extensive experience representing clients throughout the litigation process at the trial, appellate, and Supreme Court level. He has litigated cases covering a broad variety of subject matters, including administrative law, antitrust, securities, and telecommunications. He has briefed dozens of Supreme Court and other federal and state appellate cases, argued cases in the federal and state courts of appeals, and opposed dispositive motions in complex, high-stakes cases at the district court level.

Mr. Rapawy has represented clients in pathmarking securities cases such as Merck & Co. v. Reynolds, 559 U.S. 633 (2010), which clarified the statute of limitations for claims of securities fraud; and Matrixx Initiatives, Inc. v. Siracusano, 563 U.S. 27 (2011), which recognized the materiality of information about adverse health effects of over-the-counter medication. He also recently represented the National Credit Union Administration (NCUA) as liquidating agent in a series of successful lawsuits (including appellate victories in three circuits) against major investment banks arising from the sale of residential mortgage-backed securities.

In other areas of litigation, he has appeared for both plaintiffs and defendants in cases covering a variety of subjects. He represented iPhone owners in a significant Supreme Court victory for private antitrust plaintiffs in Apple Inc. v. Pepper, et al., No. 17-204 (2019). He also successfully defended on appeal a statutory asset-freeze injunction in NCUA v. Jurcevic, 867 F.3d 616, 621 (6th Cir. 2017); a major jury verdict for a bankruptcy trustee in In re Magnesium Corporation of America, 682 F. App'x 24 (2d Cir. 2017), and an industry-wide antitrust class certification ruling in Kleen Products LLC v. International Paper Co., 831 F.3d 919 (7th Cir. 2016).

Mr. Rapawy also frequently represents clients petitioning for or opposing certiorari in the Supreme Court, or appearing as amici curiae to advise the Supreme Court and the courts of appeals on issues of broad constitutional, legal, or policy concern. As amicus counsel, he has written briefs on behalf of leading companies in the high-technology and Internet sectors for interpretations of intellectual property law that encourage genuine innovation; on behalf of sentencing reform advocates against harsh and inflexible mandatory minimum sentencing statutes; and on behalf of scholars advising the courts on issues of health policy and financial regulation.

NOTEWORTHY REPRESENTATIONS

Apple Inc. v. Pepper, et al., No. 17-204 (U.S.) – representing a class of iPhone owners, obtained affirmance of a ruling upholding the ability to sue Apple as direct purchasers

Law Clerk, Judge Gary Feinerman, U.S. District Court, Northern District of Illinois, 2011-2012

Law Clerk, Judge Pamela Rymer, U.S. Court of Appeals, Ninth Circuit, 2010-2011

Dan Dorris represents plaintiffs and defendants in complex civil litigation at the trial and appellate stages. At the trial level, he has successfully represented clients at evidentiary hearings, litigated dispositive motions, and represented clients throughout the discovery process. At the appellate level, he has argued appeals and drafted briefs in cases before multiple U.S. Courts of Appeals.

Dan has particular experience with antitrust and securities cases, multi-district litigation, and class actions. He has also represented telecommunications clients in regulatory proceedings before the Federal Communications Commission and the Department of Justice.

NOTEWORTHY REPRESENTATIONS

Represented the National Credit Union Administration as liquidating agent in a series of lawsuits against major financial institutions regarding the sale of residential mortgage-backed securities. The suits were filed in three federal district courts and generated multiple appeals to three Courts of Appeals. Dan was involved in all aspects of the litigation, including drafting the complaints, briefing dispositive motions and appeals, taking and defending fact and expert depositions, and managing discovery. Each suit was resolved prior to trial, with defendants in three suits offering judgment for the full damage demand plus attorneys' fees. More than $5.1 billion has been recovered.

Successfully briefed and argued against an appeal brought by two groups of objectors to a class action settlement agreement. The settlement agreement concerned overpayments for motor fuel and resolved more than eight years of multi-district litigation. See In re Motor Fuel Temperature Sales Practices Litig., 872 F.3d 1094 (10th Cir. 2017).

Defended Facebook, Inc., against antitrust claims brought by Social Ranger, LLC, relating to social games on Facebook. The case settled shortly before trial. Social Ranger, LLC v. Facebook, Inc. (D. Del.).

Successfully represented iHeartMedia, Bain Capital, and THL in the Delaware Court of Chancery and Delaware Supreme Court with respect to a shareholder derivative action. The action was dismissed on the pleadings by the Court of Chancery, and that ruling was affirmed on appeal by the Delaware Supreme Court. *See GAMCO Asset Mgmt.
